The last few years have consisted of media, marketing, and website creation, which involved a large amount of implementing organization, automation, and more for clients. Through these processes, I have realized the importance of software development in these automations, and started my path down the constantly evolving world of coding. I am passionate about creating the most hands-off, swift, and automated programs for my clients.

PROJECTS

GUYS AGAINST SHOPPING

Nashville Software School | Capstone Project

Guys Against Shopping is an application used to help users create a grocery list and map their way through their grocery store of choice. As you select grocery items, they are saved to a list that you can name and hold onto for later. Once you are ready, you can view a map of the grocery store that will show you where each item is located within the store.

- Goal: Develop an app that solves a problem that myself and others have run into, while learning more about React, Javascript, CSS, and HTML Canvas.
